St. Ignatius Loyola urges us to “consider how all good things and gifts descend from above... just as the rays come down from the sun, or the rains from their source.”

– Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius Loyola #237

from the executive director

Dear Friends,

One of my favorite photos in this year’s annual report is the image of the Goso brothers found on page two. Gadisa and Hambisa Goso can light up a room with their smiles. They are rays of warm sunshine on a cold winter’s day. Both brothers are graduates of Nativity Prep, and both have returned to their alma mater to give back to the school community that gave so much to them. Their brotherly affection and heartwarming service make them ideal models of the people all our students are called to become - loving brothers who are men for others.

The pages of this annual report are filled with the names and photos of people much like the Goso brothers – men and women who light up the world as our students navigate their way through adolescence in the tough and treacherous inner-city neighborhoods of Boston. Nativity Prep is like a second family for our students. Benefactors, trustees, volunteers, tutors, teachers, and friends are all members of the extended family that has served our students and sustained our mission for over twenty years.

It is no secret that strong family support makes it possible for people to survive through tough times. At Nativity Prep we are deeply grateful for all the members of our extended family who helped to make our 20th anniversary year such a huge success. Your generous support has sustained us through the most challenging economic conditions our school has ever faced. Your continued support, as we forge ahead into our next twenty years, will make our family stronger and more resilient than ever.

St. Ignatius Loyola urges us to “consider how all good things and gifts descend from above... just as the rays come down from the sun, or the rains from their source.” We make it a habit at Nativity to reflect each morning on the many gifts we have received, and we ask God to teach us how to be generous with those gifts. We are grateful to you, our extended family of benefactors, for all the ways you shine like the sun and quench our thirst for models of what it means to be men and women for others.

Gratefully,

Rev. John C. Wronski, S.J.

THE GOSO BROTHERS

Nativity Prep is blessed to have not one, but two of its graduates on the faculty this year. Gadisa and Hambisa Goso, brothers and graduates of Nativity Prep have dedicated themselves to the school that made a meaningful and long lasting impact on their lives.

Originally from Ethiopia, the Goso family sought refuge in Sudan to escape the civil war, famine and disease that plagued their homeland. Gadisa was born in Sudan during this time, and the family obtained United States visas in a government sponsored lottery program. The courageous Gosos moved to Minnesota where a sponsoring church helped them to learn English, find an apartment and prepare resumes to look for jobs. The family moved from Minnesota to Boston later that year; Hambisa was born shortly after.

The Goso children attended their local public elementary school in Boston, which did not provide enough of an academic challenge for them. The family felt that the expectations and standards for the students were low, and the Goso boys were more advanced than most of their peers. Gadisa's principal noticed his strong work ethic and suggested to the parents that they look into sending him to nearby Nativity Prep.

The Goso parents were so impressed with the Nativity program after Gadisa enrolled, that they decided it was definitely the place they wanted Hambisa to attend as well.

Although it was an adjustment to go to a new school, both boys rose to the occasion. Gadisa and Hambisa credit Nativity Prep as the place where they embraced many of the morals and values that guide their lives today. They both recall with enthusiasm the many activities they participated in as students at Nativity Prep. Kayaking, sailing, visiting the Cape and spending one month away at overnight summer camp were some of the highlights of their youth. According to Gadisa, "Growing up in the inner-city of Boston we lived in a haphazard bubble. Nativity Prep provided us with a chance to experience new things and exposed us to new people that we otherwise would not have met."

While in high school and college Gadisa and Hambisa both took full advantage of Nativity's robust Graduate Support department. The Graduate Support staff partnered with them on high school placement, financial aid, scholarships and internship opportunities. The Goso family's appreciation extends beyond the experiences of the two boys. The Graduate Support department also lent a hand to their three sisters with high school and college advice.

After graduating from Nativity in 1997, Gadisa attended the Groton School and then went on to Stonehill College where he majored in International Relations. After graduating from Stonehill in 2005 he returned to Nativity Prep as a volunteer teacher. He chose to return because he truly felt it was the right thing to do. He taught computer literacy and writing lab for the first two years. After that, he transitioned to directing the after-school program, high school placement program and the admissions department. This past summer he became the Director of Graduate Support where he provides comprehensive support to other alums in high school, college and beyond.

Upon graduating from Nativity in 2002, Hambisa went on to study at the Noble and Greenough School and then attended Trinity College in Hartford, CT where he majored in Economics. While a student at Nobles he traveled to Romania where he volunteered at an orphanage, and while at Trinity he spent a semester abroad in France.

After graduating from college in the spring of 2010, Hambisa felt called to return to Nativity and give back to the school that had given so much to him.

His love of working with children, coupled with a mathematically oriented background suit him well in his role as the 7th and 8th grade volunteer math teacher. In addition to being an educator, Hambisa also serves as the coach for lacrosse and is chairing the parent committee.

According to both brothers Nativity offered them the "full package." The school recognized both their gifts and their needs. The boys received a top-notch education, a good moral compass, and access to opportunities that otherwise would have been beyond their reach. In return, today's Nativity Prep students and alumni are the fortunate recipients of Gadisa and Hambisa Goso's dedicated teaching, guidance, love and support.

JACK MAHONEY

“My family and I are very excited about supporting your efforts and doing it in a way that honors my dad’s memory and his own strong interest in Nativity Prep.”

Like many of Nativity’s supporters, Jack Mahoney was introduced to Nativity Prep twenty years ago by Barry Hynes, the school’s founder.

Encouraged by Barry, Jack and his good friend Jim Moynihan decided to donate the proceeds of their annual Christmas luncheon to the new, tuition-free, Jesuit middle school in Roxbury that was serving low-income boys from Boston. Jack’s affinity and admiration for the mission of Nativity Prep remained strong. His quiet acts of kindness to Nativity developed into a lasting family legacy.

Born and raised in Belmont with his nine siblings, Jack Mahoney graduated from Northeastern University and went on to pursue a career in the computer industry, working for companies such as IBM and Honeywell. Together with his wife Marcia, they raised five children. After moving several times, the Mahoney Family eventually returned to the Boston area and settled in Dover. Lovingly referred to as “O” by his children and grandchildren, Jack can be described in many ways: a hard worker, a man’s man, a person with a great sense of humor, a golfer, a carpenter, a dedicated Catholic. But most of all, he is described as a loving and devoted husband, father, grandfather and friend.

Shortly after celebrating his 50th wedding anniversary, Jack Mahoney passed away unexpectedly in February 2007. Because of Jack’s belief in its mission, Nativity Prep was the beneficiary of numerous gifts from family and friends upon his passing.

In the months following his father’s death, John (Jay) Mahoney decided to create a more permanent legacy for his father and established an endowed fund at Nativity. In a letter written to the school in October 2007, John wrote, “My family and I are very excited about supporting your efforts and doing it in a way that honors my dad’s memory and his own strong interest in Nativity Prep.” In June 2010, John significantly enhanced the fund with the addition of a very generous $200,000 gift. Beginning this year, Nativity will draw monies from the fund to support short-term operating needs, and the principal will be reinvested for growth.

John’s four siblings – Mark, Ann, Mel and Sally – also contribute to Nativity in their own meaningful ways through personal donations and hometown drives to raise money for new books and other school supplies. Aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews continue to support Nativity and honor Jack’s legacy through annual contributions to the Mahoney Fund. Upon moving back to the greater Boston area from Chicago three years ago, Mel reached out to Nativity and offered her services as a volunteer. She first volunteered in the library. Today she serves as the school’s social studies coordinator and SSAT Prep teacher. Along with her husband Brad and their 3 sons, Mel is an integral part of the daily life of Nativity.

Although Jack Mahoney is no longer with us today, his legacy lives on. The John H. Mahoney Memorial Fund not only provides a lasting tribute to Jack Mahoney, but also assists Nativity with its need to build a stronger and healthier financial future.

alumni travels - Nativity's 247 graduates continue to make their mark in our community and beyond. Here is a small sampling of the paths that our alumni are traveling along today.

Hudson Ewei, Class of 96 and current Nativity Prep Trustee: Recently left Pyramid Hotel Group, where he worked as a centralized controller, to begin an MBA program at Dartmouth College's Tuck School of Business.

Jason Perry, Class of 96: Will be going to Hangzhou, China later this year to speak at the American Lifestyles Expo, where he will be addressing over 50,000 technology venture capitalists about music distribution, entertainment and Amalgam Digital, the East Boston record label he has worked at for the past year. The goal of the Expo is to provide visibility for American companies to Chinese investors and to promote international business.

Welbis Ortiz, Class of 07: Spent the Spring 2010 semester abroad at The Island School, in Eleuthera, Bahamas. While at The Island School he worked on many environmental research projects dealing with the importance of lemon sharks on the island and composting soil effectively. During the three-month semester he also achieved one of his personal goals, which was to learn how to swim. In fact, in the end, he was able to complete a four-mile open water swim.

Carlos Romer, Class of 07: Spent one month this past summer in Argentina where he toured the country, learned its customs and traditions and performed community service for the homeless.

Jovanni Soto, Class of 07: A student at the Boston Arts Academy, Jovanni is currently studying several dance styles including hip-hop, modern and jazz, as well as traditional and contemporary ballet. His normal school day consists of academic classes in the morning and dance classes every afternoon. Outside of school, he also performs with the dance group, Origination Inc. In October he was part of three performances put on for the general public in Wellesley by Origination Inc.

student voices

My favorite thing about being a Nativity student is...

- Rashad Everyone gets along as a family. I also like evening study.
- Charles The friends you meet and the great education you receive.
- Felipe That every single person here will support you in a time of need.
- Quang The opportunities and the brotherhood. I have teachers and friends who care for me, and I get a great education.
- Maximo The nice staff and the way we pray each and every day.
- Anthony That we have the privilege to do activities here that other schools do not offer.
- Mason I get a lot more opportunities here than I did at my old school.
- Osman The dress code and that we have student sponsors.
- Jovany That I get to learn about a lot of things since we have a lot of subjects.
- Ivan The great education and the athletics.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Lorraine Smith has been involved with Nativity Prep since the very beginning of the school's history. First as a Nativity parent, and then as a volunteer, for the past 20 years she has served the school in a variety of ways including chef, driver, mentor and member of the Board of Trustees. Currently, "Mama Smith" as she is lovingly called by the boys, prepares a nutritious and delicious dinner for all of the students every Monday night. If you pass her in the kitchen you might overhear her discussing the reasons she enjoys being part of the Nativity community; the feeling of love and family in the school and watching the boys grow up and mature.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Ed Dailey connected with Nativity Prep by way of St. Ignatius Parish and Boston College's School of Theology. Ed is a partner in the Boston intellectual property law firm, Sunstein Kann; but with a push from St. Ignatius pastor and Nativity Board member, Bob VerEecke, he enrolled in the School of Theology five years ago, fulfilling a goal he's had since undergraduate days at Dartmouth to pursue theology studies. Then, with encouragement from Bill Campbell and John Wronski, the lawyer added teacher to his resume. After graduating from STM in 2010, Ed developed and taught a new religion course to our Class of Grande last year. And he had "such a grand time working with the promise of our kids" that he has signed on to teach religion to the Classes of Grande, Kostka, and Healy this year.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Judith McHugh has been giving of her time and talent to Nativity Prep for the past eight years as a volunteer tutor. Working one-on-one and with groups of students during the school day, Judith uses her experience as an educator to help our students better grasp the complex concepts they encounter in the classroom. Judith has also recruited her high school-aged grandson, James, to volunteer at Nativity. James, a student at BC High, has helped landscape the school property.

In addition to the dedicated adult tutors, for the past several years Nativity has been blessed to have the PULSE tutors from Boston College joining us for Evening Study. The PULSE program is an interdisciplinary philosophy and theology course that includes a service component, which is completed at Nativity Prep. Students in the PULSE program dedicate 10-12 hours per week helping with student supervision, preparing and serving dinner to the students, and assisting with homework and one-on-one tutoring.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Debbie Packard was introduced to Nativity Prep through a social justice program offered by St. Ignatius Parish. After first volunteering at Nativity as a cook in the dinner program, her role has since expanded over the course of the last three years. Debbie now assists with teacher consultation and curriculum development, and supports students both in and out of the classroom.

NATIVITY Spirit

SERVICE AWARD DINNER

2010 Honoree

Each year the Nativity Spirit Service Award Dinner commemorates the legacy of our former Executive Director, Raymond J. Callahan, S.J., by bestowing an award bearing his name on an individual who exemplifies the commitment to service and social justice that animated Fr. Callahan's life. This year, Mary Kelleher and Kevin Leary received the award.

The following donors generously sponsored our 2010 Spirit Dinner with a gift of $1,000 or more.

our mission

Nativity Preparatory School is an accredited, tuition-free, Jesuit middle school serving boys of all faiths from low-income families residing in Boston. Staffed by experienced teachers and dedicated volunteers who work closely with families, the school prepares students for success in high school and college. Nativity's academically challenging and highly structured environment helps students grow in a love for learning and an abiding sense of responsibility to their community. In the Jesuit tradition, the school promotes the intellectual, spiritual, social, and physical growth that inspires boys from Boston to become men for others.
